President's Message

Hello Patriots!

We KNOW “voting” is not enough. There’s A LOT of work ahead to have a Republican sweep in November. That’s why I am excited and pleased that you are out there doing what is necessary to GET OUT THE VOTE.

Thank you for completing GRW’s “I CAN HELP” cards. Your information has been directed accordingly. Several of you signed up to train as election judges, clerks or paid poll watchers – roles greatly needed and truly appreciated by our GCRP. A few of you gathered with CCRW to help with the Postcard Campaign. Another group met for the Abbott Impact training and are now busy texting, calling or preparing to block walk. Many of you are directly supporting our candidates and attending campaign rallies. I proudly see our candidates’ campaign signs popping up in neighborhoods and along roadways all over the county. Have you placed signs in your yard yet? Keep up the good work and WE WILL celebrate a November victory!

Mark your calendars and RSVP for our October 21st meeting.

- Dr. Julie Pickren will speak about “Big Wins and Updates on the State Board of Education”.
- Holiday Market vendors will be displaying their wares. Arrive at 11:00 a.m. for an hour of shopping before our meeting begins.
- Membership Kickoff: Time to RENEW your DUES; time to bring a guest and encourage them to join us.
- Presentation of GRW slate of officer candidates for 2027. The floor will be open for any additional nominations.

Stay in the know. For updates and on-going events, visit any one of our available media: Newsletter, Facebook, Instagram and Website.

God Bless You - God Bless Texas – God Bless The USA!

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Debra Harper, CE Chair
community@tfrw.org

Educating Voters

TFRW clubs and individual members all over Texas are engaged in so many activities to help Republicans win in November. All hands are on deck to support the November General Election.

Activities range from establishing new relationships with like-minded groups and continued work with established organizations. Information about these programs is available in the TFRW and NFRW newsletters as well as many local GOP resources.

Community Engagement Chairs, please send me a brief description of your Community Engagement projects and your contact information. I would like to highlight what clubs are doing across the State by sharing your projects in future newsletters.

Some of our members are new to political involvement and are finding opportunities to encourage people to get out and vote, discuss candidates or explain the benefits of free-market capitalism in a variety of settings such as in prayer groups, Rotary, women's groups, lunch groups, and community organizations, just to name a few.

An elevator speech can help articulate a quick point you want to get across. It is a brief statement that explains who you are, highlights an issue, and invites someone to get involved during the 30 to 60 seconds it takes to ride an elevator. Numerous examples and templates are available through a quick online search.

Many resources are available to help members understand what is at stake in this election. If a particular issue is your priority, an elevator speech can help you make your point quickly. Effective messaging is an essential part of political communication.

Affordability and economics rise to the top of voters' concerns in many polls. NFRW President Martha Jenkins published an excellent article in the NFRW Newsletter, the Capital Connection, called "Accountability for Affordability," August 24, 2026. It frames the importance of understanding inflation, and how we got to this point in the economy. It is crucial for Republican candidates to articulate how the Democrat policies, excessive borrowing and spending led to price increases. Republicans have passed legislation to reduce taxes, stimulate growth, and reduce fraud. It takes time to unravel the damage done by the previous administration. There is a clear distinction between the Republican principles versus the Democratic Party who has opened its tent to include Democratic Socialist candidates.

This article offers insights our members can use to educate voters. Just like the TFRW newsletter, the free NFRW newsletter is delivered via email to every TFRW club member in good standing whose membership has been processed through the TFRW and NFRW Membership System in 2026. Please take advantage of your benefits and utilize these tools!

What an absolutely fantastic kick-off event for the 2026-2027 Galveston Republican Women at the beautiful San Luis Resort! The atmosphere was electric as we gathered to celebrate our shared commitment to empowering our community. We were privileged to hear from Galveston County Commissioner Dr. Robin Armstrong, who provided invaluable insights into the pressing issues of healthcare and prescription drug costs, highlighting the importance of advocating for individual rights. In a show of unwavering support for our candidates, each was generously awarded $1,000 to fuel their campaigns, reinforcing our dedication to fostering strong conservative leadership. Additionally, our hearts were warmed as we collected donations for Upward Hope Academy, a remarkable Galveston private school that provides tuition-free education to help our most vulnerable youth stay in SPEAKER: Irene asked Dr. Levinda Walpole to introduce Dr. Robin Armstrong.

Dr. Robin Armstrong has dedicated his life to being a servant leader. He attended Texas A&M University, earning a degree in microbiology, before completing medical school and residency at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston. Dr. Armstrong practices medicine in his hometown of Texas City as owner of Armstrong Medical Group, which includes hospital and nursing home physicians, nurse practitioners, and physician assistants. In addition to his medical career, Dr. Armstrong has a long history of political involvement. He first served locally as a precinct chair while still in medical residency and he has since been an election judge, city chair, and executive committee member of the Republican Party of Texas (SREC), where he also served as Vice Chair. In June 2012, he was elected to the Republican National Committee (RNC) as Texas' National Committeeman, a position he holds today, also serving as Vice Chair of the Southern Region, a member of the Rules Committee, and on the RNC's Faith Advisory Board. He was appointed by Governor Greg Abbott to the Finance Commission of Texas on April 2, 2019, where he helped oversee regulation of the state's banking and savings and loan industries. He is currently the Galveston County Commissioner, Precinct 4. Dr. Armstrong has frequently appeared in media, including television interviews on One America News Network, NEWSMAX, and Fox News' Laura Ingraham Show, as well as radio programs across the United States in major markets like Houston, New York City, and Las Vegas. He has appeared on podcasts such as the Glenn Beck Program and the Ron Paul Podcast. Robin has also been featured in national publications such as Rolling Stone, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, U.S. News & World Report, and USA Today. His successful treatment of 38 COVID-19 patients at one of his nursing facilities received national attention. Dr. Armstrong has also participated in healthcare panels at the White House, including one attended by President Donald Trump, and recently joined President Trump for the "Transition to Greatness" panel. Dr. Walpole thanked Dr. Armstrong and presented him with a token of our appreciation.

CLOSING REMARKS: Irene encouraged everyone to download the Abbott Impact app on your phone. It is an easy guide on "How to Get Out the Vote". Irene mentioned the HOW CAN I HELP CARDS on each table and asked everyone to fill one out. The cards will be picked up after the meeting. She also asked everyone to take the survey in the newsletter. Irene said that there will be a Holiday Market at the October luncheon. Vendors will set up early for people to shop prior to the meeting. Irene called the luncheon meeting adjourned at 1:20.

Linda Dreith, Recording Secretary.

Legislative Updates

Texas Legislative Report

Legislative members continue with committee meetings in preparation for the next legislature session. One issue under review by the House Select Committee on Governmental Oversight involves restrictions on where local governments can conduct official meetings after a Bastrop City Council retreat more than 100 miles away in Fredericksburg sparked concerns over public access. This committee is responsible for evaluating the authority of political subdivisions to hold meetings subject to the Texas Open Meetings Act outside their jurisdictions. State Rep. Stan Gerdes first raised concerns about the Bastrop retreat earlier this month, arguing that holding the workshop in Fredericksburg made it “nearly impossible” for residents to attend and participate. Gerdes reported that he would file legislation requiring city council meetings to be held in the cities they represent so residents have “a fair opportunity to attend, speak, and hold their elected officials accountable.”

As Texas debates the expansion of artificial intelligence and data center infrastructure, a House committee is examining a related question of who owns the personal information those systems collect, store, and process. At issue is whether Texas’ existing privacy law sufficiently protects consumers—or whether Texans should be recognized as the owners of their own data.

The House Committee on Delivery of Government Efficiency, chaired by State Rep. Giovanni Capriglione (R–Southlake), held an interim hearing on the implementation and effectiveness of the Texas Data Privacy and Security Act. This committee is examining a related question of who owns the personal information collected, stored, and processed by artificial intelligence and data center infrastructure. The committee is examining whether Texas’ existing privacy law sufficiently protects Texans amid the accelerating collection and monetization of personal data.

The State Affairs Committee of the Texas House is researching a report that agencies do not comprehensively track data centers’ water usage or the local tax breaks they receive. The state instead relies on survey responses.

The committee heard from Pablo Vegas, CEO of the Electric Reliability Council of Texas (ERCOT), and Thomas Gleeson, chairman of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC), the two agencies responsible for managing Texas’ electrical infrastructure. Gov. Greg Abbott has requested these agencies to audit all data center projects in the process of connecting to the Texas power grid, specifying that the PUC and ERCOT must learn which projects benefit from state and local tax breaks.

The Texas House State Affairs Committee met to hear testimony on data centers and the state’s plan to build 765-kilovolt (kV) transmission lines to bring power from East and Central Texas to West Texas, allotting six hours apiece to each topic.

A coalition of energy industry groups, including the Texas Oil & Gas Association (TXOGA), supports the 765-kV plan. Opponents include conservatives such as the Texas Public Policy Foundation (TPPF) and advocates for greater local authority — two camps that often disagree. Democratic local officials tend to oppose legislation by the Republican-led state government officials, and conservative organizations such as TPPF argue that local governments should be restricted in their activity.

In 2023, the Texas Legislature passed House Bill 5066, directing the Public Utility Commission (PUC) and the Electric Reliability Council of Texas to develop regional reliability plans, starting with the Permian Basin. The PUC announced last April that it had approved the state’s first-ever “extra-high-voltage” transmission lines to serve the Permian Basin, where heightened industrial development is increasing the demand for power.

Much of the energy conveyed from other parts of the state to the Permian Basin, an area rich in natural gas, would come from wind and solar generation. Texas Railroad Commissioner Wayne Christian, a staunch supporter of thermal energy and critic of renewable energy, has denounced the plan for the same reason, arguing that subsidies for wind and solar energy have distorted the market. The project would also require construction on private land.

Powering Texans CEO Walt Baum called out a TPPF report that criticized the 765-kV transmission plan and claimed new natural gas generation in the Permian Basin could better fulfill the plan’s goals of providing energy to local users.

State Rep. Ken King (R-Canadian), the committee chairman said, “So to get to the parts of the state that are growing, particularly without data centers, just population growth, those

GALVESTON REPUBLICAN WOMEN OUTREACH

Saturday, September 26th, Galveston Republican Women (GRW) volunteers Dr. Levy Walpole (VP Programs) and Marcy Hanson (Chaplain) supported Dr. Robin Armstrong's Community Health Fair in Dickinson, Texas, by helping residents access voter-registration information and prepare to participate confidently in upcoming elections. Their assistance made it easier for eligible community members to understand and exercise their voting rights, while the distribution of U.S. Constitution booklets and patriotic items encouraged civic education, informed discussion, and continued involvement in community life.

On August 29, we gathered for an exhilarating event to re-elect Rep. Dr. Greg Bonnen, featuring a special appearance by our esteemed Governor Greg Abbott. The atmosphere was electric as members of Galveston Republican Women came together, enjoying delicious BBQ and fostering connections with local leaders. This occasion served as a powerful reminder of our collective responsibility to engage in the electoral process. As we look ahead, it is imperative that we all get out and vote—let's not sit this one out! Every single vote is vital in preserving our Texas values and preventing the encroachment of socialism and communism in our beloved state. We encourage you to rally your family and friends, bringing at least ten people with you to the polls, and show the strength of our community united for conservative principles!

Here on the Texas Gulf Coast, our waterways, ports, and flood protection systems are the backbone of our communities and the engines of our economy, helping America lead and dominate on every front. That is exactly why I voted YES on the Water Resources Development Act of 2026 (WRDA), which passed the U.S. House of Representatives this week.

This legislation delivers three major wins for Texas' 14th District! It strengthens our ports and waterways, improves critical infrastructure, and helps protect our communities from flooding for the hardworking folks of the Texas Gulf Coast.

Here is what Texas' 14th District is getting:

- Sabine-Neches Waterway: Directs the Secretary of the Army to expedite the review and coordination of the Sabine-Neches Waterway Channel Improvement Project feasibility study, helping prevent unnecessary delays for this critical waterway.
- Brazoria and Galveston Counties: Authorizes $5 million for water infrastructure projects, including improvements to water supply systems.
- City of Kemah: Authorizes $5 million for water and wastewater infrastructure, including stormwater management, in Kemah.

These provisions represent $10 million in authorized water infrastructure projects across our region, helping us move forward and continue powering the future of Texas and America. The legislation now heads to the U.S. Senate for further consideration.

Abbott IMPACT

Thursday, September 24th, 2026, a group of Galveston Republican Women met in the home of GRW President Irene Henry for Abbott Impact Training. Governor Abbott's Impact Representative, Milton Garcia, assisted attendees in downloading and setting up the app and reviewing the various features at hand. The group chose to focus on reaching neighborhoods via texting with the current targeting emphasis on low-turnout Republican voters. Plans are to continue using the app to reach voters via phone and block-walking.
